

The WCU Poetry Center and the Poetry Faculty Advisory Committee
welcome

Meg Day

Meg Day is the author of Last Psalm at Sea Level, winner of the Barrow Street Press Poetry Prize and The Publishing Triangle's 2015 Audre Lorde Award, and a finalist for the 2016 Kate Tufts Discovery Award from Claremont Graduate University, a 2015 Lambda Literary Award in Poetry, and Jacar Press' Julie Suk Award. Day is also the winner of the 2012 Gertrude Press Chapbook Contest and the 2013 Gazing Grain Chapbook Contest.

Day was raised in northern California's Bay Area, holds a B.A. from the University of California, San Diego, an M.F.A. from Mills College, and a Ph.D. in Literature and Creative Writing with an emphasis on Disability Poetics from the University of Utah. The 2015-2016 recipient of the Amy Lowell Poetry Traveling Scholarship and a 2013 recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Fellowship in Poetry, Day is Assistant Professor of English & Creative Writing at Franklin & Marshall College and lives in Pennsylvania.

"I'm Deaf, Genderqueer, & still alive."

Come meet Meg Day: performance, slam and bilingual poet

All readings and class visits are free and open to all. Meg's book, Last Psalm at Sea Level, will be available for purchase.

October 17

Intro to Writing Class

12:30-3:15pm — Main Hall, Room 200

November 7

Painting & Poetry

12:30-3:00pm — E.O. Bull, Room 168

November 19

Open Reading

7:00pm — Francis Harvey Green Library

*Please contact Cyndy Pilla at cpilla@wcupa.edu for additional events and information.

