

Continuing education for social workers

Almost all social work licensing boards require social workers to complete continuing education courses. Continuing education keeps professionals' knowledge current and is required for social workers to remain licensed. Continuing education units are often referred to as CEUs.

Each board has its own continuing education requirements. Check the regulations for where you are licensed. For example, Pennsylvania's requirements include a stipulation that all continuing education courses must last for at least two hours.

Many organizations provide CEUs in person and online. Local college social work programs are one place to check. A selection of other ways to find CEU courses is listed here.

CEU search engine

- National Association of Social Workers – Continuing Education Portal

In-person CEUs

- NASW Assurance Services
- NASW – Delaware Chapter
- NASW – New Jersey Chapter
- NASW – Pennsylvania Chapter
- New Jersey Society for Clinical Social Work
- Pennsylvania Society for Clinical Social Work
- PESI

Distance learning CEUs

- Ce4Less
- ContinuingEdCourses.net
- GetCEUsNow
- NASW Lunchtime Series
- NASW Specialty Practice Sections
- NetCE
- Social Work Online CE Institute
- Social Work Today